MyWorldView® and the Global Leadership Profile (GLP) can both be used in coaching, team facilitation and leadership development programs. The headline difference is that the GLP is more in-depth. They use the same 30 sentence stems for the assessment, but thereafter there are some difference to how the tools might be used.

MyWorldView® is scalable due to our bespoke technology that enables fast scoring and large volumes. It means it is also the cost-effective option. It does the heavy lifting in explaining the theory in a very accessible way through its online debrief and self-paced learning. It reveals how a person profiles within a range of seven worldviews (also known as action-logics) however it doesn't unlock the deeper thinking that might be observed through a detailed, comparative, analysis of individual sentence stems.

The GLP is more in-depth and requires a certified coach to debrief it. Each of the 30 sentence completions are individually scored and supervised. The GLP comes with an extensive report, explaining how the person has profiled, and includes a commentary that's unique to the individual. This also offers coaches a rich resource to draw from that can lead to many powerful coaching inquiries and explorations.

What MyWorldView offers:
